

市川守弘

Lawyer,
The Director, the Tomamu Law Firm

Education

- Graduated from Chuo University, Faculty of Law

Experience

- Joined the Sapporo Bar Association (1988)
- Studied at the University of Colorado the School of Law (1999 - 2002)
- Majored in American Indian Law and Natural Resources Law
- Represented multiple Ainu organizations in lawsuits against three universities, claiming the return of Ainu remains in each university's custody, resulting in the return of 119 remains (2013 ~)
- Filed a lawsuit on behalf of the Raporo Ainu Nation against the Japanese Government seeking confirmation of its right to fish salmon (currently pending in the Sapporo High Court) (2018 ~)